After obtaining the ladder piece, Justine must then climb the ladder to reach the room holding Dr. Fournier. If the user attempts to let Dr. Fournier live, they're presented with a new puzzle: the Sewer King. If the player unlocks him and then lets him live, this will allow the player to enter an elevator located near the entrance of the tower, which takes them to the East-most sector. Once there, they will face the Sewer King, who can now be defeated for the first time. After speaking to him, he will leave, giving the player access to a locked door. This room houses mementos, including a photograph of Dario Giachetti, Justine, and Sophia. If the S-Key is obtained from the Sewer King, this will allow access to the room with the Gersh monitor, as well as the Overlook, containing mementos, a pair of scissors, and a tin can. Unlike the S-Key, the Overlook key is not required to go through the Sewer King. If not, the player will be forced to go back to the Prison block and find the Sewer King, who will not be able to be killed this time, though he will leave again. Once the player returns to the prison block, they are then forced to face the Headless Woman, who is the second suitor to appear. She speaks to the player about a picture of a girl on the wall. If the player goes on to pick up the scissors on the floor, the Headless Woman will offer her severed hands. She will then run away, leaving the player access to a wooden area that leads to the second moth room with another ladder. To get the part of the ladder, the player must push a box down the ladder to lower it, requiring more effort than the prison cell in the previous room. Once up top, the Headless Woman will go down the ladder to encounter the next phase.

Amnesia: The Dark Descent - Map Pack V.3.0 Game

The Realm is a level with two keys, with no blood trails. The two keys are located in the middle of the level, in a hallway that crosses the level. The main section of the level is the middle, with most of the zombies at the top of the stairs. Unlike prior Descent levels, it did not use the sequence of gameplay elements that featured in the past two Descent maps. Instead, it is played straight. Each key is the primary goal of the level. However, the secondary objective is for the player to collect the Minigun first as it is the weapon that will become available at the end of the level, and thus the player must first complete the level. It is the first Descent level to use the "soft trigger", which let players get the Minigun without being excessively exposed to regular zombies. The other notable gameplay element is the death scene, in which the player must stay in the room to avoid death, but the level does not have blood to be spent. The level also has several new features, including a pharmacy, a treasure room, a fountain, and two new Wonder Weapons. The player may revisit the level, continuing past the Minigun, to collect it. The Wonder Weapon is called the Revive Weapon. When a player has only a Revive Weapon they can die on that spot, but will be revived at the start of the next round. If no Wonder Weapon is active, however, they will be immediately revived. The main attraction of the Map Packs is to be found in its accompaniment to the included video games, with its new Full Moon lights, spooky sound effects and increased ammunition and experience bonuses for the player. The new Jackal's Rage is actually an upgrade to the old one, featuring a new red coat, a different skin color and a new music track. The gun sports two new secondary weapons, the Wave Cannon and the Eye Ray. The latter, which is remarkably similar to the Clap Trap is also red. The Beretta is now a Red Wolf. The Overkill is now a Thunderclaw. The Long Rifle has been replaced with the Gothic Lancer. The Shagbark Shotgun has been changed to the Gothling Shotgun. The Aeolus Artifact is now a Percha Artifact. The gunner has been changed to a Dressed up Belgo. The last map from Vampire: The Masquerade - Bloodlines is now named The Twins. The MTB has been renamed to The Biologist. The Pooka has been renamed to The Rude Boy. The Cripple now has a new skin that has more bone patterns. The Gun Stables have been changed to the Hangar. There's now a second Hangar at the East Lake. The Crowbar has also been changed to a Carousel. As always, there are plenty of consumables, with an additional Choice of Three, Backtrack Two and Restore Health cans. Lastly, the auctionhouse now lets the player sell their items in one place. They can always access it by pressing the BackTrack button and playing the map load screen. When you get to the Warp Gate, press the BackToMap button and it will use the player's last position to return them to the map. The item currently in the hand of the player will be the action needed to exit and reload the last map.
