What is Stainless Steel and Duplex Steel?

Stainless Steel is a corrosion-resistant alloy of iron, chromium, and other elements that make it strong, durable, and ideal for harsh environments. It is widely used in UAE industries due to its ability to withstand extreme heat, humidity, and exposure to chemicals.

Duplex Steel is a combination of austenitic and ferritic stainless steel. It offers double the strength, excellent corrosion resistance, and improved performance in aggressive conditions like offshore and chemical plants. Duplex steel is the preferred material where strength and corrosion resistance are both critical.
